EVERY CHILD HAS THE RIGHT TO A SAFE PLACE TO CALL THEIR OWN

What does the word 'home' mean for an orphaned child?

A home can be that safe place they call their own, offering them a sense of consistency in an otherwise unpredictable world. Somewhere they can live their childhood and finally begin to build happy memories. Sadly, many of the houses where orphaned children live cannot be homes. They are a source of pain rather than comfort. Many children are living in houses with no adequate space and no protection from harsh weather. Some houses have broken windows or doors, or are damaged in ways that make it dangerous for children to play in.

Children deserve to feel safe and protected. No child should have to endure daily life without safety and security.

We believe in providing the opportunity for orphaned children to shine, and having a stable home is where it begins.

HELP PROVIDE ORPHANED CHILDREN

At Al-Ayn, every safe home we provide to orphaned children is fully equipped, meaning that they can feel secure, they can feel warm, and they can pursue their life choices in a safe environment.

A safe home reduces a child's risk of falling ill.

Children are less likely to suffer from mental health and behavioural issues when in safe, secure environments.

Safe housing increases educational attainment, improving prospects for employment and reducing poverty.

Safe housing improves cognitive development in children.

A safe place to play helps children to build resilience and improves their self-esteem.

CASE STUDY

"We used to live in a really old house. Whenever it rained, our house would get flooded with rainwater and creepy insects. But this new house has good and clean walls. I even have my own room now and can read my books in peace!"

For eleven-year-old Saif, gaining a new home is likely a very defining moment in his childhood. He no longer needs to worry about the weather having such a destructive impact on his day. He may even start enjoying the sound of the raindrops on his window from the comfort of his new room.

All children are entitled to live in adequate housing. But for many orphaned children and their families living in poverty in Iraq, unsafe living conditions are a stark reminder of all that they have lost. When you help to restore or build a home, you are helping an orphaned child to finally begin to build happy memories in a secure, warm environment. Change a child's life for the better this Ramadan. Our safe housing projects focus on providing safe homes for orphaned children through home repairs or the provision of brand new homes. Get in touch to see how you can help.
